

PERT PARAGRAPHS picking is one of the popular and pleasant pastimes of this punk printer, who purposely publishes the pungent puns to provoke the pugnacious public. Witness these accumulations:

Civilization is an advancement from shoeless toes to toeless shoes. You can always tell when a little boy is fibbing. He makes a short story long.

"The typical pretty girl is much easier to look at than to listen to," says an author. Who listens?

It used to be that a fool and his money were soon parted. Now it happens to everybody.

Some fellows who are not paid what they are worth ought to be glad.

Who rules the world now that no one rocks the cradle?

A wise man is one who knows as much at the age of 80 as he thought he knew at 18.

It's never wise to argue with a fool. The listeners don't know which is which.

Only a light bulb can go out every night and still be bright the next day.

The less a man knows, the more he wants to tell it.

Habit is justified only if it releases the mind for other activities.

FRED GYMER, sober looking advertising executive of Cleveland, Ohio, is the originator of the cynical, sarcastic, sometimes insulting mottoes which you often see on office walls, desk tops and greeting cards. Among some of his recent concoctions are these:

Accuracy is our watchword—we never make mistakes.

Don't talk about yourself; we'll do that when you leave.

Don't be silly—of course, I work here because I like it.

I spend eight hours a day here—do you expect me to work, too?

If you can't convince 'em—confuse 'em.

If you can't understand it—oppose it.

Keep your eye on the ball, your shoulder to the wheel, your ear to the ground—now, try to work in that position!

My mind is made up—don't confuse me with facts.

TEACHERS of journalism and practical newspapermen through the years have urged writers to be brief, use short sentences, and state the fact in as few words as possible. Now along comes a fellow who seems to have run the thing into the ground. He reviews 1958 as follows:

In nineteen fifty-eight AD The Republicans evaporated, The Democrats accumulated, Stocks fluctuated.

Prices accelerated, Taxes confiscated, Voters bleated, Taxpayers donated.

Texas deflated, Congress investigated, Hoffa negotiated, Adams abdicated.

Ike reiterated, Dulles circulated, Warren legislated, Traitors celebrated.

Schools integrated, Kasper agitated, Daisy abated, Faubus orated.

Stays moderated, Stevenson vacated, Truman berated, Eleanor prognosticated.

Democracy vacillated, Socialism permeated, Communism infiltrated, Russia awaited.

The Country Parson

"It seems easy for others to call church members hypocrites—and kind of easy for members to prove them right."

IT STARTED AS A HOBBY—When Roy Moritz, who farms northwest of Stamford, first began raising Jersey cattle it was a hobby. Now developed into a major industry on his 300-acre farm, he has some of the finest registered dairy cattle in West Texas. More Money Ready For Land Reserve

Texas farmers will receive a basic rate of $12 an acre under announced plans for the conservation reserve of the soil bank for the 1960 crop season by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. A tentative goal of 432,000 additional acres was also announced for the state, in a release to The Herald this week.

Principal changes listed for the 1960 conservation reserve in the USDA announcement include regulations relating to publicly owned land, tenure of ownership, method of setting payment rates and the determination of priorities when more applications are received than can be accepted.

Land owned by a state, county, town or local government will be ineligible for the program. This rule is already in effect on federally owned land. Land which has changed ownership (except inheritance) since December 31, 1956, is ineligible to enter the program in 1960.

If land under a 1960 conservation reserve contract is sold, the contract generally may be assumed by the purchaser only after it has been in effect for three years. The priority system of accepting applications has been modified to assure first consideration to farmers who were unable to participate in the 1959 program because of lack of funds.

Detailed information as to the application of these and other changes to individual farm situations will not be available in county ASC offices until mid-August, stated the USDA announcement.

This will be the fifth year of the conservation reserve program. If farmers contract for the expected 5,000,000 additional acres in 1960, the total acreage in the program next year will be approximately 28,000,000.

TEN YEARS AGO.

ONE YEAR AGO.

The news briefs below are reproduced from The Hamlin Herald dated August 7, 1958:

A good maize crop in the Hamlin territory has started to move to market. Early feed is turning out well, while later crops were stunted by the drought.

Additions to the F. B. Moore Grain Company that will add 500,000 bushels to the capacity, are going up fast.

Economical Transportation Offered In New Rambler American for 1959

People of the Hamlin area are opening their eyes to the sound, economical transportation offered by the 1959 Rambler American, according to Gene Westmoreland of the Carmichael Buick, Rambler and GMC Company, recently appointed area dealer for the exciting new car.

Westmoreland declares that the late George Mason was a firm believer in what he called "basic transportation." He and other automotive pioneers felt that the industry's first obligation to the consumer was to build low-priced, mass produced, roadworthy cars which would be economical to operate and maintain. Mason, for many years an engineer with one of the "big three" auto firms, was frustrated in his desire for "basic transportation" as the industry pursued a course for longer, lower, fancier and more powerful. It was not until 1950 that Mason was able to bring forth the Rambler—his concept of sensible transportation. The test car was essentially that same 1950 Rambler—revived in 1958 as the Rambler American—and only slightly changed to 1959 form.

For those unfamiliar with the Rambler American, a few details: It is built on a 100-inch wheelbase. Overall length is 14.8 feet. The body and frame are welded into a single unit, a practice seen in all other cars built by American Motors, as well as Lincoln, Continental and Thunderbird, and Chrysler is expected to use unitized construction next year.

Power is provided by a six-cylinder engine of L-head in-line design. Displacement is 195.6 cubic inches with a rating of 90 horsepower. This is considerably larger and more powerful than the power plant seen in the typical imported economy car.

In recent road tests the Rambler has yielded an amazing 31.9 miles per gallon at 30 miles per hour, declares Westmoreland.

New Horse Show to Be State Fair Feature

An entirely new horse show, offering a total of $34,840 in cash premiums and featuring most of the fashionable light horse breeds in the United States, will be inaugurated at the 1959 State Fair of Texas, October 9 to 25.

The State Fair of Texas Horse Show, as it is officially titled, will present three different series of shows, with judging scheduled almost every day of the fair.

The event will be presented in the new, modern $2,000,000 State Fair livestock coliseum, which will seat more than 7,000 spectators.

Cotton Farmers Fear Crop Blight in Nolan

Numbers of Hamlin area cotton farmers are concerned about reports of an alarming cotton crop blight, apparently verticillium wilt, a fungus disease which has been a big problem on the High Plains this year, has hit much of the cotton in the Sweetwater area of Nolan County.

County Agent M. B. Templeton estimates that the wilt has blighted about one-third of the cotton in the Roscoe area. This is the first time the disease has been serious in Nolan County.

Harold Eades to Get 10-year Service Pin at VA Confab

Harold Eades, former teacher of vocational agriculture in Hamlin High School for nine years, is scheduled to receive his 10-year service award next week at the Texas Vocational Agriculture Teachers Association, which meets in Fort Worth.

The Texas Education Agency is sponsoring its annual in-service training program for all the vocational ag teachers of Texas.

Eades came to Hamlin in 1949 when he graduated from Texas A & M. College and taught with T. C. Blankinship for nine years before going last year to Crosbyton, where he is presently teaching.

"It doesn't seem like I've been teaching for 10 years," Eades says, "but it does give one an opportunity to look back rather hastily. I can recall many students to mind and I never had a student that I didn't think the world of. I like teaching, and I like the opportunity of working with rural youth and their parents."

"Since most of my teaching experience has been in Hamlin, I want to say again thanks, first of all to Mr. Blankinship, the best ag teacher in the state, for all his guidance and encouragement while I was there; and to the administration of your school, and to all the many wonderful parents and friends, who made my work in Hamlin so enjoyable," concludes Eades.

VISIT FROM FORT WORTH.

Mrs. Nell Farrell and son, Don, and wife of Fort Worth visited her sister, Mrs. H. A. Perkins, and Grandmother W. J. Wilcox and other relatives over the weekend.

LETTERS FROM HOME REFLECT OUR CONCERN

One thing the American people must believe: Their elected representatives are more interested in what they hear from their constituents at home than they are in the concerted lobbying of pressure groups. The sincere desire of every senator and Congressman is to vote on pending legislation as the voters who sent them to Washington desire and expect them to vote.

It is, therefore, extremely important that the popular will on leading issues be communicated—in a continuing tide of personal letters from home. Only thus will our representative form of government function as intended.

Lacking a groundswell of popular opinion to guide them in shaping the kind of legislation they are gathered in Washington to enact, our congressmen and senators may very well be swayed by those who step forward in their own interests to "interpret" the will of the people. Lacking direct word from labor's rank and file, for example, our lawmakers must be forgiven if they accept as labor's voice the stern commands of labor leaders and their swarms of errand boys.

The legislative need of the hour quite obviously is federal law that will restore to union workers the organizations that rightfully belong to them—that will redemocratize the unions. Needed above all else at the moment is a thorough-going bill of rights for American labor, a law that will protect the worker's right to organize and bargain collectively by means of his own choosing and that will defend such organizations not only against such employers as would destroy them but in equal measure against self-seeking labor leaders who would usurp them.

Needed is a law that will protect organized workers against the unwarranted calling of strikes in their name and, like as not, against their will. Needed—by organized employees and by the long suffering public as well—is a law that will keep the workers of any given enterprise or industry at work until they themselves shall have had full opportunity to judge negotiations conducted in their name and in the end to vote in fully protected secrecy whether to accept the employer's final offer or strike in an effort to better the bargain.

Well, bills to accomplish these vital purposes have been developed in both House and Senate—many of them over the protests of labor's top bosses, obviously. The machinery for full-scale union reform has been designed and is ready to be geared by the law to its appointed task. The Congress of the United States waits only for directive word from home to order this machinery put into action—or to weaken it beyond the point of immediate efficiency—or to scrap it entirely.

This, then, is the time of times for every sincere American citizen to throw off the bonds of lethargy and write his senators and congressmen. If he believes in union bossism and a labor movement that plays down the rights and sacrifices the human dignity of workers, let him write a letter to his Congressman and in no uncertain language say so.

Back Door to Treasury

In the view of Senator Byrd, who is certainly a top authority on the complex subject of government financing and spending, "nothing could be more fiscally irresponsible" at this time than an amendment which a Senate committee has tacked on to the pending foreign aid bill.

The effect of this amendment, if it becomes law will be to by-pass the appropriations committee of Congress and to obtain huge sums of foreign aid money by going through the "back door" to the treasury. In other words it would be entirely outside the normal appropriations process of the government.

In Senator Byrd's words: "... the proposal would directly increase the already astronomical federal debt of this country by more than $5,000,000,000 at the rate of $1,000,000,000 a year for five years, to make foreign loans which 'do not qualify' for financing elsewhere."

The big issue here is not whether any particular foreign aid proposal is good or bad, or whether it should be approved or disapproved. The issue is whether—at a time when the president has found it necessary to ask for lifting the ceiling on an already unbelievably high federal debt—Congress is to irresponsibly abandon its duty of managing federal spending. This "back door" precedent could pave the way to the kind and degree of inflation that would totally destroy the value of the dollar.

Nuggets of Thought

Solitude shows us what we should be; society shows us what we are.—Richard Cecil.

I had three chairs in my house: One for solitude, one for friendship, three for society.—Henry David Thoreau.

Solitude is the nurse of enthusiasm, and enthusiasm is the true parent of genius.—Isaac Disraeli.

The essence of snobbery is to assess value according to a wrong type of scale; the snob is always trying to measure beauty with a thermometer or weight with a clock.—Arthur Koestler.

Snobbery is pride in status without pride in function.—Lionel Trilling.

The word that is overbeating is a spur unto strife.—Pindar.

Golden Streets Remain

Near Salisbury, in England, there used to be a Roman city of considerable size, but now all that remains are a few stone walls to show where once the city stood.

Not long ago a tourist went to view the place, and climbing one of the ruined walls, was able to look down over where the city once was. Strange as it may seem, the whole area had been sown to grain, and the entire plan of the city was visible. Wherever there had been a street, the grain had ripened and was golden yellow, whereas the building plots were covered with the still green grain.

Possibly the soil was thinner in the streets, and perhaps the old paving blocks lay near the surface, causing the grain to ripen sooner along the thoroughfares. At any rate, there was the hand of an ancient people being reflected in golden streets.

May we not gain a lesson from this episode? May we not imagine that some act of ours may come to light at some future day, in just such a curious manner? It is an inspiration to so live today that whatever may happen in a month, in a year, in a century hence shall be a credit to us.—The Greeting Card.

Editorial of the Week

THE EGG CHASERS.

In the last six months the Department of Agriculture has doled out $19,000,000 of the taxpayers' money for egg and poultry. Purpose: To prop up the prices.

The poultry industry, which has been hit by the lowest prices in 18 years, has been cutting back production — over-production earlier in the year having caused the sliding prices. Egg prices now are inching up.

Meanwhile, the small business administration, another agency of the government, boasts of lending more than $1,000,000 in the last two months to poultry raisers, or would-be raisers, to expand production.

More chicken and egg production means exactly what the poultry industry has just been suffering: Over-production and lower prices. Then more use of taxpayer money to buy up the surplus.

And people laugh when a dog chases its tail!—The Fort Worth Press.

You're the expert on ride, so you'll want to try Chevy's easygoing smoothness for yourself. MOTOR TREND magazine can give you a hint of what you're in for: "... the smoothest, most quiet, softest riding car in its price class." And Full Coil springs, of course, never squeak, never need grease.

fresh styling

POPULAR SCIENCE magazine gave Chevy's styling a thoughtful look, then said it this way: "In its price class, Chevy establishes a new high in daring styling..." You'll find your own happy way of saying that Chevy's the only unmistakably modern car in its class.

greater roominess

Automobile Manufacturers Association records carry the facts on this. In a Chevy sedan, for example, you've got more front seat head room than all but one of the high-priced cars! And Chevy's front seat hip room spreads up to 5.9 inches wider than comparable cars.

bigger savings

Here's solid proof that Chevrolet squeezes more miles out of a gallon: In the famous Mobilgas Economy Run, two Chevrolet sixes with Powerglide took the first two places in their class. Winning mileage: 22.38 m.p.g. And that, friends, took top honors for Chevy from every full-sized car!

higher trade-in

N.A.D.A.* Guide Books prove that your Chevrolet will keep its value. Chevy used car prices last year, for example, averaged up to $128 higher than comparable models of the other two cars in Chevrolet's field.

Women's Division Will Be Feature at Jones County Fair. Entries Indicating

Women of Jones County will have an opportunity to compete for first, second and third awards in 23 departments of the women's division of the Jones County Fair, to be held in Anson on Friday and Saturday, September 4 and 5.

Entries are being accepted in 106 classes, Mrs. J. A. Walker, superintendent has announced. Girls of the county can also exhibit in clothing and food departments of the junior and teen-age divisions, she said.

The women's division includes clothing, hobbies, ceramics, antiques, crochet, table covers, textile paintings, copper, quilts, bedspreads, knitting, pillow cases, accessories, towels, hand-made novelties, pillows, pictures, needlepoint work, rugs, foods, canned vegetables and fruits, reporter's scrap-book, and education. Girls' exhibits will include breads, cakes and cookies, food preservation, clothing, and hobbies. Ribbons will be awarded the top three winners in each of the women's, junior and teen-age divisions.

The Lions Club hall at Avenue I and 11th Street will be used exclusively by the women and girls for their exhibits. This building was selected for their use because it will afford ample space for all exhibits as well as for lounging room and rest stations. The building is air conditioned and will have plenty of tables and chairs and other facilities for comfort for exhibitors and viewers.

Exhibits in this building will be open to the public starting at 12:00 noon Friday, September 4, and until closing time Saturday night. Judging will be from 9:00 a. m. until 12:00 noon Friday.

All entries in the junior and teen-age department must be in place before 8:00 a. m. on Friday. Entries in the women's departments must be in place by 8:00 a. m. the same day. Exhibits in the women's division will be accepted on Thursday, September 3, from 9:00 a. m. till 5:00 p. m.

Girls and women interested in entering exhibits or in securing additional information may contact Mrs. Walker or one of her assistants, Mrs. Herman Steel or Mrs. Walter Love. Four-H Club and women's Home Demonstration Club members, as well as other individuals, may also contact the office of Mrs. Mary Y. Newberry, county home demonstration agent, for additional information or entry cards.

Dr. Paul Southern Talks on Lions on About Alcoholism

"More than 70,000,000 Americans drink, and one out of 10 of these is an alcoholic," tersely declared Dr. Paul Southern of Abilene when he spoke at the Tuesday noon luncheon of Hamlin Lions Club at the oil mill guest house.

Dr. Southern, head of the Bible department at Abilene Christian College, is president of the Texas Society for Mental Health and president of the Abilene Council on Alcoholism. His topic Tuesday was "The Growing Menace and Problem of Alcoholism."

He declared that Alcoholics Anonymous and other similar organizations today are doing a wonderful job of rehabilitating people from the disease of alcoholism. He said their work is in three phases—education, prevention and treatment. "We cannot help a person unless he is willing to cooperate," said Southern, "but many of those suffering with alcoholism can and are being rescued."

He pointed out that alcoholism ranks fourth in the health problems of today. Mental, heart and cancer problems rank in that order ahead of alcoholism.

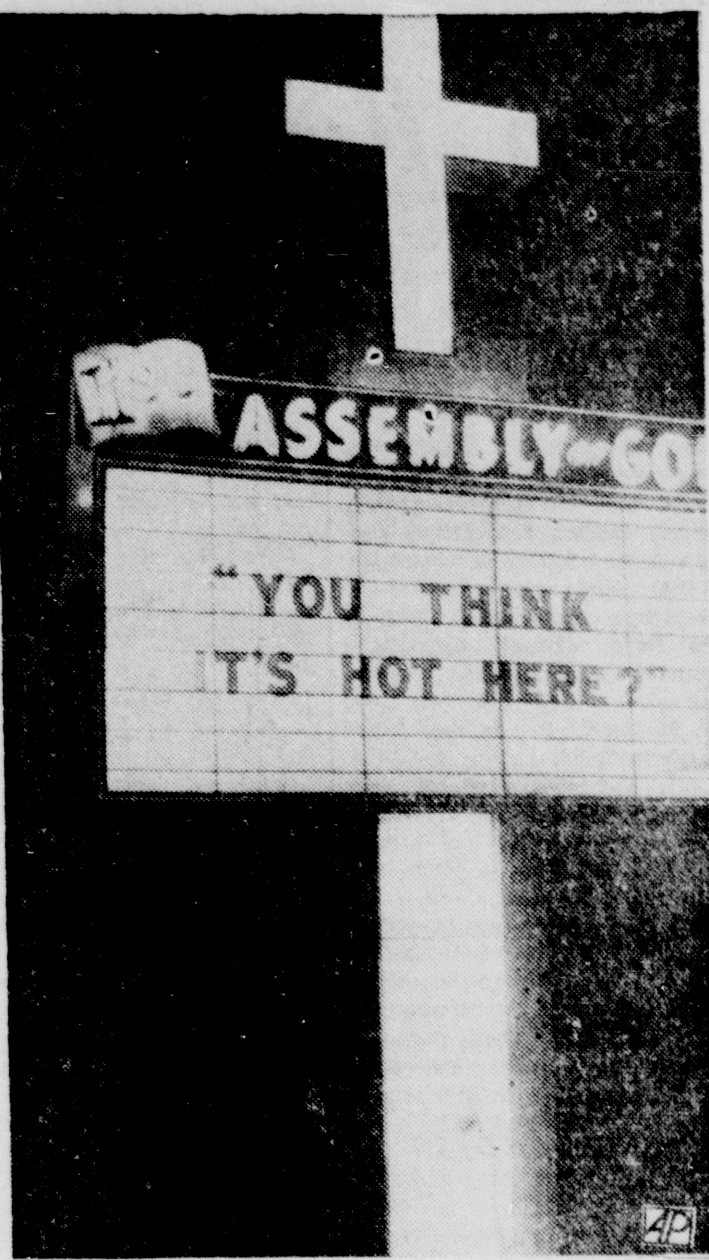

Tail Twister Calvin Bailey, who next week will move to Bristol, Virginia, where he has accepted a new Baptist pastorate, was presented a flannel nightgown as a going-away gift, properly autographed by members of the club. He modeled the garment for the club's fashion-wise eyes.

Besides Dr. Southern, another guest at the Tuesday luncheon was Orville D. Roland, new BCD manager.

PERKINS INFANT DIES.

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Perkins of Snyder, formerly of Hamlin, died July 20, seven hours following birth. The mother is the former Velma Flowers. Graveside rites were held Tuesday afternoon in Hamlin East Cemetery. Hamlin Funeral Home was in charge.

Numerous Home Accidents Give Cause For Practicing Safety by Household

Be it ever so humble, there's no place like home—despite the accident statistics.

The statistics might make you wonder about "home, sweet home."

1. Home accidents kill more children one to four years of age than any disease.
2. Home falls take 12,000 lives a year.

3. Home fires and other burns take the lives of 5,500 persons annually.
4. Accidental poisoning in the home claims 1,000 victims a year.

"Home accidents," the National Safety Council reports, "kill some 27,000 persons a year, and injure more than 4,000,000."

"In view of these facts," the council said, "you may well be concerned with the safety of your home."

"But when you stop and consider the great number of hours spent in the home, the statistics are more understandable even if the danger is just as real."

A hazard-free home, the council said, results from practicing the safe way of doing things. "You will soon do them automatically," it predicted.

Here are some danger signals to watch out for in the home:

1. Water or grease on the kitchen floor.
2. An unlighted stair, or toys and boxes piled on stair steps.
3. Oily rags or papers left in a corner of the basement.
4. Dull knives, which are dangerous because they force the user to apply too much pressure, and because most people don't have the proper respect for them.
5. Pots on the stove, the handles turned out for little hands to grab.
6. Rubbing alcohol, candy-coated laxatives and aspirin left for small children to sample.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Newsom Celebrating Anniversary Sunday

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Newsom, long time Hamlin community residents, will be celebrating their golden wedding anniversary Sunday, August 9, at their home.

The couple was married 50 years ago on August 8, 1909, in the Boyd Chapel community, south of Hamlin, at the home of her parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Bond. She is the former Elizabeth Bond.

Mr. and Mrs. Newsom have been residents of this area since their marriage. He has farming interests and deals in cattle buying.

To this union were born four children, three of whom died in infancy. Mrs. Charles Connally, the former Lucille Newsom, is their only child. There are three grandchildren, Eddie and Gary Connally and Mrs. Barbara Woods, all of whom live in Hamlin.

Fashion Has Three Faces This Fall, Says Adele Simpson, Famous Designer

Fashion has three faces this fall, says designer Adele Simpson.

Previewing her new collection, the petite but supercharged Mrs. Simpson says women should have many moods, with clothes to match.

"This fall women will want to be tailored by day," she says. "Simplicity and neatness are the watchwords. Suits are stripped of non-essentials, with small lapels and trim shoulders, with easy fit and simple lines."

"Women also want to look 'precious' at all times—not 'daring' or 'pretty,' but valuable and cherished. This is a new refinement in the art of being a woman. It consists of wearing graceful, beautiful clothes with dignity and the pride of possession."

"These are the three faces of fashion for the coming season."

Mrs. Simpson shows simply cut suits with longer jackets and a great deal of fur trimming. Untrimmed suits and dresses are worn with fur hats.

For evening she shows a brilliant group of metallic brocades cut on the simplest lines, in tailored coats and suits, illustrating her new "swagger" look. Says she:

"This is the season when a woman should achieve neatness without strictness, when she should be confidently and beautifully dressed for any occasion, when she leaves nothing to chance."

Sponges Have Many Uses in Household

Sponges are wonderful household helpers. Sponge your favorite cleaner on shirt collars and cuffs before washing them. The soiled places will wash clean without extra rubbing. Try using a sponge for moistening your clothes before pressing them.

Use a sponge as a de-linter for fabrics. Just dampen the sponge very slightly and use it like a brush. A dampened sponge also will remove dog hair from the couch, sofa or bedspread.

And a moist sponge will become your favorite means of cleaning suede shoes with no effort at all.

Methodist Women Conduct Panel Type Program on Church

Mrs. John D. Ferguson was in charge of the program when members of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of the First Methodist Church met Tuesday morning.

Mrs. Ferguson was moderator for a panel program on "Faith with Works: The Local Church," and members of her panel were Mrs. Fred Carpenter, Ella Temple and Mrs. W. L. Hunter Jr. They discussed how the woman's division participates in the church program. Mrs. A. A. Hackley led the group in prayer.

Mrs. Richard Young Jr., president, conducted a business session. Mrs. Hackley gave her report on the school of missions which she recently attended at Lubbock.

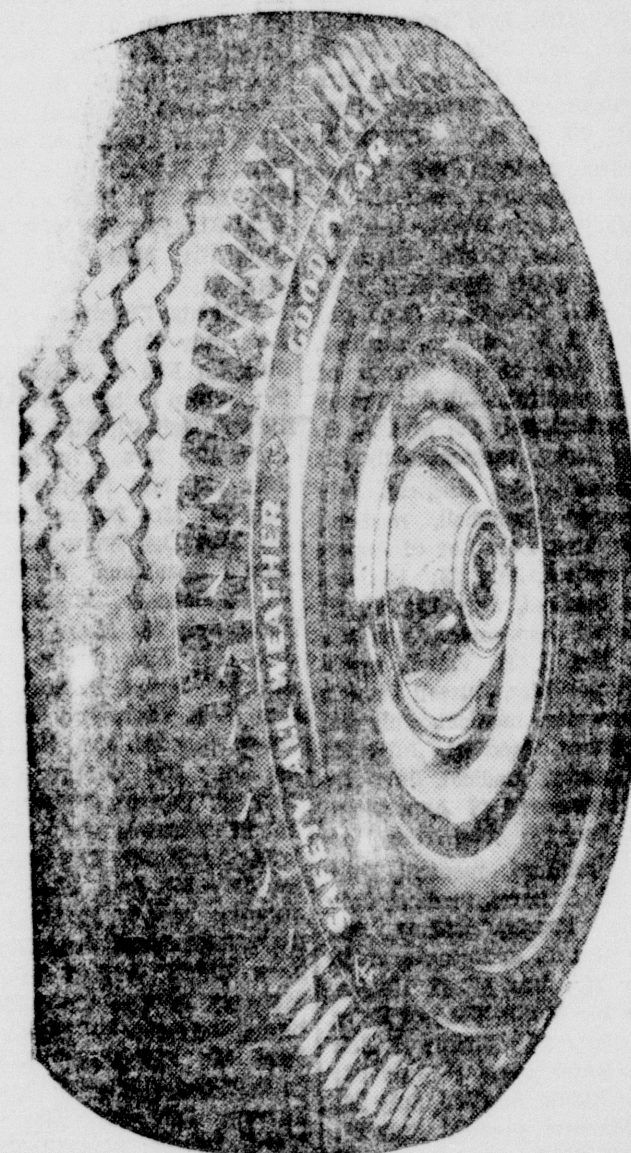

Mrs. Edmund W. Robb dismissed the group with prayer.

County Fair Dairy's Superintendent Grows Fine Cattle as Business Hobby

Good livestock has figured prominently in the farming program of the Moritz family for two generations and for Roy Moritz, three miles northwest of Stamford, the emphasis has always been on registered dairy cattle.

That interest first expressed in a hobby, became and is being sustained as a major phase of his operation on his 300-acre farm, where his present herd includes more than 50 producing cows and a lot of promising heifers. His flare for the best in that field will also be quite evident at the first annual Jones County Fair at Anson, September 4 and 5. He is superintendent of the dairy cattle division.

He is encouraging other dairy cattle enthusiasts of the county, including FFA and 4-H Club members, to enter their animals in the fair as a means of stimulating a wider interest in dairying in this section of Central West Texas.

His "preaching" in this field will be practiced by his own 14-year-old daughter, Judy, who will be a freshman in Stamford High School this fall. Judy will enter a Jersey cow that has been a winner in the Jones County FFA and 4-H Livestock Show the past three springs. She is Draconis Standard B Pipp, a six-year-old. She was grand champion of the spring show the past three years, and last year was second in her class in the West Texas Fair at Abilene. Judy has been showing in fairs and livestock shows almost ever since she could stand alone and hold a halter rope. Her first entry in a show later sold for $1,000.

Other fair entries from the Moritz herd of registered Jerseys will include another cow, several heifers and possibly a bull or two.

Roy is a native of the Stamford area and was reared on a half-section farm, adjoining his present stock farm on the east, which has belonged to the Moritz family for many years. As a boy in Stamford schools he became interested in dairy cattle and, after graduating from high school, he chose to pursue that interest on a farm of his own rather than go to college. The result has been the building of one of the largest registered dairy herds in Jones County, where the predominant aim has always been the best in milking stock, and the favorite breed has been Jersey. Presently he has two or three Holsteins, but he is basically a Jersey man.

Breeding a high producing line of milk cows naturally led Moritz into the dairy business, since of necessity the cows had to be milked, the local thing to do was find a market for the milk. This soon led to a rather large dairy operation which after a time was sold. However, his interest in good dairy cows continued, and soon he found himself "growing" back into the dairy business, once more, and at the present time he is supplying about half of the milk that is processed and retailed in Stamford. At peak production seasons part of his milk is also hauled to processors and retailers in other towns in this area.

Moritz helped to organize the Central West Texas Milk Producers Association and maintains a membership in the organization. The association helps to maintain a uniform milk supply for all Central West Texas and also is a means of stabilizing the market for producers, Moritz says.

Though there are not many dairy herds in Jones County now, Moritz believes there could be a number of entries in this division of the fair. He knows of some 10 FFA and 4-H Club members who have registered animals, and there are four other dairymen in the Stamford and Hamlin areas. Also there are one or two herds

James B. Young, Dies Saturday in Abilene Hospital

James Benjamin (Jim) Young, 63-year-old Hamlin area farmer, succumbed early last Saturday morning at the Hendrick Memorial Hospital in Abilene after an illness of about six months. He had been in the hospital most of that time.

Born February 10, 1896, near DeKalb, he was the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Young. He was married to the former Idora Sullivan on September 9, 1917, and she passed away several years ago. He married the former Ruby Hess in July, 1952. He has been a resident of the Hamlin community most of his life.

Funeral services were conducted last Thursday afternoon at the Neinda Baptist Church. Officiating were Rev. Fred Blake of Roby and Rev. Delton Fisher of Hawley.

Burial was in the McCauley Cemetery under the direction of Hamlin Funeral Home.

Surviving the long time resident are his second wife, Mrs. Ruby Young; one son, Kenneth Wayne Young of Hamlin; two daughters, Mrs. Tommy Parsons of Sweetwater and Mrs. Lloyd Johnson of Deming, New Mexico; four step-children and one step-grandchild; six grandchildren; two brothers, Frank Young of Hayworth, Oklahoma, and John Young of Kirkland, Washington; five sisters, Mrs. Mattie Harbon of Alabama, Mrs. Bessie Alexander and Mrs. Sarah Nobles of Abilene, Mrs. Opal Lynch of California and Mrs. Ethel Brockus of Oklahoma; one half-sister, Mrs. Mary Reed of DeKalb.

FOUND IT OUT.

Old Lady—"My good man, I hope you realize that drinking will never get you anywhere."

Inebriate—"Ain't it the truth, ma'am? I started home from this corner five times already."

In the south part of the county, he said.

The other herds in the north part of the county are owned by Jap Kemp and M. S. Reynolds of Hamlin, Van Petty of Lueders and one formerly owned by Herman Cox of Stamford that was sold to a Haskell County man.

Congressman Omar Burleson Points to Sect Opposing Government Program

One of the strangest lobbies appeared in Washington this week, notes Congressman Omar Burleson of Anson in his weekly news release to The Herald. The release continues: "The representatives of this lobby have periodically visited the capitol for the past several years."

They are a group of Amish bishops and ministers who ask help from congressmen to be freed from federal old age and survivors' insurance and social security.

The Amish, a group of the Mennonite religious faith, are opposed to participation in the program because of their beliefs. In their habits and mode of conduct they remain much as they were in the seventeenth century.

It is a paradox that two hours of driving from the hustle and bustle of the nation's capitol will bring one to great communities of these people. Along the roads leading through the area where they live are signs posted, "Slow; Watch for Horse-Drawn Vehicles."

When an agent of the FBI before the war, it was my privilege to know some of these folks in Indiana and Ohio. Visiting them, the first thing noticed were the fine barns, good stock, immaculate premises and well built houses.

Although few conveniences—no rugs on the floors, no telephone or radio, and today no television aerials on the houses—everything always spotlessly clean, always the very best of substantial food.

Their clothing is severe—dark clothes, some homespun; low-crowned, broad-brimmed black hats for the men; long, black dresses, gray or black bonnets for the women.

Exercising Will Help Relieve Tired Feet After Strenuous Day

Tired feet can make you feel miserable all over by the end of the day. Instead of just resting your aching feet when this happens, exercise them to make them feel part of you again.

These exercises take only a few minutes, and most can be done while you put up your hair. For full benefit, you should exercise barefoot.

1. Rise on your tip-toes and lower slowly to the heels.
2. Walk on the tip-toes, then on the heels, toes pointed high.
3. Stand with the feet parallel and roll outward, throwing all of your weight on to the outside of the foot.
4. Sitting down, cross one knee over the other, point the toes, and rotate the feet first clockwise, then counter-clockwise.
5. Throw a Turkish towel on the floor and work the toes to gather it into folds. Or try picking up a pencil with your toes, or wrap them around the edge of a book.
6. Finally, for a thorough pick-up, massage your aching feet with a soothing medication. Rub it into the balls of the feet.

JUST ADDING WEIGHT.

"Sorry, Miss, this letter won't do this way," said the postal clerk. "It is too heavy. It needs another stamp."

"Silly man," said the pretty thing. "That would but make it heavier."

AFTER 11 YEARS in the Hamlin DePriest School, E. S. Morgan, principal, this week resigned the post to accept a similar position in the Big Spring school, which has 21 teachers. He is pictured above in cap and gown when he received his master's degree in education.

Do Your Mending as You Cook Dinner

You'll catch up on your mending if you do it while your dinner is cooking. In a well-lighted corner of your kitchen counter, have your husband install a shelf or drawer for needles, thread and darning eggs.

The smooth surface of the counter will protect the garments from tearing.

Two Golf Tourneys Slated in September

Two invitational golf tournaments for golfers of Central West Texas are scheduled for September at the Hamlin Lakeview Golf Club. It was announced this week by officials of the club.

A tourney for men will be staged Saturday, Sunday and Monday, September 5, 6 and 7. Trophies and golf equipment will be awarded to winners, who will be seeded by qualifying play. Jim H. King was named tournament chairman.

A tournament for women golfers of the area will be played the second week-end in September under sponsorship of the Women's Golf Association of Hamlin.
